

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A multi-directional switching device having: a case; a switch housed in the case; one operating member capable of inclining in multi-directions, for operating the switch by means of an inclining operation in each of the directions; a first rubber dome to be operated by means of an inclining operation of the operating member; and a second rubber dome arranged in the vicinity of the first rubber dome, wherein a movable distance of the second rubber dome by the inclining operation of the operating member is made longer than that of the first rubber dome.